EDITORIAL

In common with the majority of Family History Societies, our own shows a steady increase in enquiries from people interested in tracing their family tree. Some of these enquirers subsequently join us as members. This general growth of interest must lead to the more careful harnessing of the resources within our membership. This need has for some time been felt within the Federation of Family History Societies and has prompted the Federation to propose reconstruction of its own Executive Committee to provide extra hands to run its day to day affairs. There is no shortage of theories to explain the growth of interest in genealogy; but the fresh resources brought to the subject, when properly harnessed and organised, cannot but prove beneficial to future generations of researchers.

A Genealogist's Dream - to have your family tree traced by Debrett? Yes, this was the prize recently offered by a well known weekly magazine to the competitor who in a few words made out the best case for being descended from a well known person of their own choice.

Our clever member, Monica, being desirous of help in her search for her Smith forbears wrote, "With Robert the Bruce to inspire me I would not stop tracing John Smith." We think she deserves the prize - if only for her cheek - don't you?

Extracts from entries of burials in Burn's "History of Parish Registers in England."

Hunstanworth, Durham 4 November 1709, Ann, daughter of James Colling who was 18 years of age, never chewed bread, of stature not above a three years old child, the thickest part of her arms and legs not exceeding the thickness of a man's thumb.

St. Alkmund's Derby 1720, buried Jane Cressop who was killed by the coloquintida, or bitter apple, which she took to procure an abortion. God give others better grace Teddington 7 March 1743/4 James Parsons, who had often eaten a shoulder of mutton or a peck of hasty pudding at a time, and this caused his death aged 36.

Old Style Advertisement

To those who consider the do-it-yourself type of handyman something of a modern innovation, this mid-19th century advertisement of a schoolmaster from near Sheffield, somewhat disproves this theory. The man's earnings never exceeded £80. p.a.

I, Richard Furness, Schoolmaster, Dore,
 Keep parish books and pay the poor,
 Draw plans for buildings and indite
 Letters for those who cannot write.
 Make wills, and recommend a proctor,
 Care wounds, let blood with any doctor.
 Draw teeth, sing psalms, the hautboy play at Chapel on each holy day.
 Paint sign boards, cart names at command,
 Survey and plot estates of land.
 Collect at Easter one in ten,
 and on the Sunday, say 'Amen'

Churchyard Poetry

In Ashover Churchyard:-

Reader, stand and shed a tear,
 Think on the dust,
 that slumber here.
 And as thou read
 the state of me,
 Think of the glass
 that runs for thee.

Inscription of a twice married barber surgeon at Bakewell.

This thing in life might raise some jealousy,
 here all three lie together lovingly,
 But from embraces, here no pleasure flows,
 Alike are here all human joys and woes.
 Here Sarah's chiding John no longer hears,
 And Old John's ramblings, Sarah no longer fears.
 A period's come to all their toilsome lives,
 The good man's silent, still are both his wives.

On a Railwayman's grave in Derby:-

My engine now is cold and still
No water does my boiler fill
My coal affords its flame no more
My days of usefulness are o'er
My wheels deny their noted speed
No more my guiding hand they need
My whistle too has lost its tone
Its shrill and thrilling sounds are gone

My valves are all thrown open wide
My flanges now refuse to guide
My clacks also, though once so strong
Refuse to aid the busy throng
No more I feel each urging breath
My steam is now condensed in death
Lifes railway's o'er, each station passed
In death I'm stopped, and rest at last
Farewell dear friends, and cease to weep
In Christ I'm safe, in him I sleep

Genealogy Room at Nottingham Central Library

Members of the Society who live on the Nottingham side of our area may be interested to hear that the new Central Library in Angel Row (2 minutes walk from the Mount Street Bus Station) is now open and has a vast quantity of material of interest to genealogists. The Genealogy Room is situated on the first floor - ask at the enquiry desk on that floor. Here there is a wonderful collection of books of special genealogical interest: copies of Parish Registers, including a set covering nearly the whole of Derbyshire, calendars of wills from various Consistory Courts and a most interesting set of books on the Old Halls, Manors and Families of Derbyshire, arranged according to Hundreds.

Parish Registers from the following counties are available:- Bedfordshire, Buckingham, Cambridge, Cheshire, Cornwall, Cumberland, Derbyshire, Devon, Gloucestershire, Lancashire, Leicestershire, Lincolnshire, Norfolk, Peak Forest, Shropshire, Staffordshire, Suffolk, Westminster Abbey, Westmorland, Worcestershire & Yorkshire.

Wills from the following areas are available:- Berkshire, Canterbury, Chelmsford, Chester, Devon, Huntingdonshire, Ipswich, Lichfield, Lincoln, Northamptonshire Norwich and York.

Census Records - These are on microfilm and are housed in the Local History Room on the third floor, where two scanners are available. A third scanner is available on the first floor

There are also files of old local newspapers and folios of large pictures giving much background information, together with maps, photographs, slides, tape recordings and films. Some duplicate items are available on loan. There are of course many reference books on local history on the open shelves.

There are special lifts and other amenities for the disabled, and the door of the genealogy room opens to 31" from inner edge of door to the opposite frame.

Memorial Inscriptions in Swanwick Churchyard

We mentioned in the last issue of "Branch News" that we were trying to obtain a copy of the memorial inscriptions of Swanwick Churchyard. These had been recorded by two Derbyshire police cadets from Butterley Hall as part of the Duke of Edinburgh's Award Scheme.

We have now obtained a copy of these and Albert Knight has very kindly indexed them for us. The inscriptions and the index are available in the library
